Jarvis Newman

yacht builder

Webster says a yacht is any one of various types of relatively small vessels, characteristically with sharp prow and graceful lines ordinarily used for pleasure.

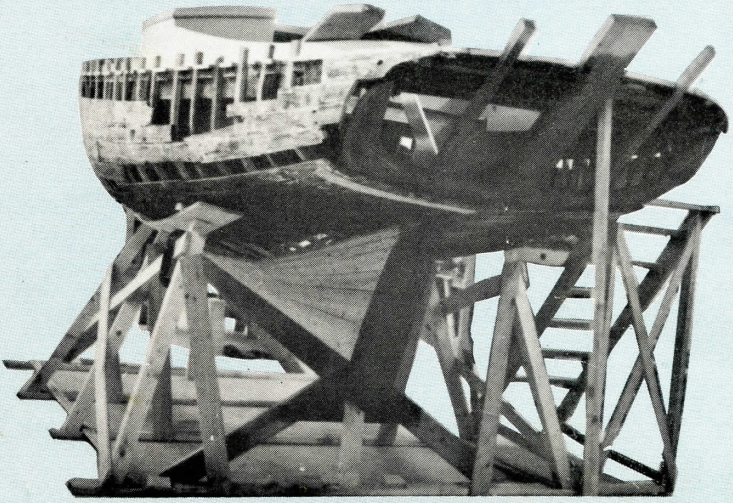

This definition might be expanded to embrace the elegance of workmanship required to satisfy the most discerning eye and searching inspection. Yacht finish denotes perfection. This is the quality of craftsmanship to be found in the boats produced by Jarvis Newman.

Hull Restorations

showing the early stages . . .

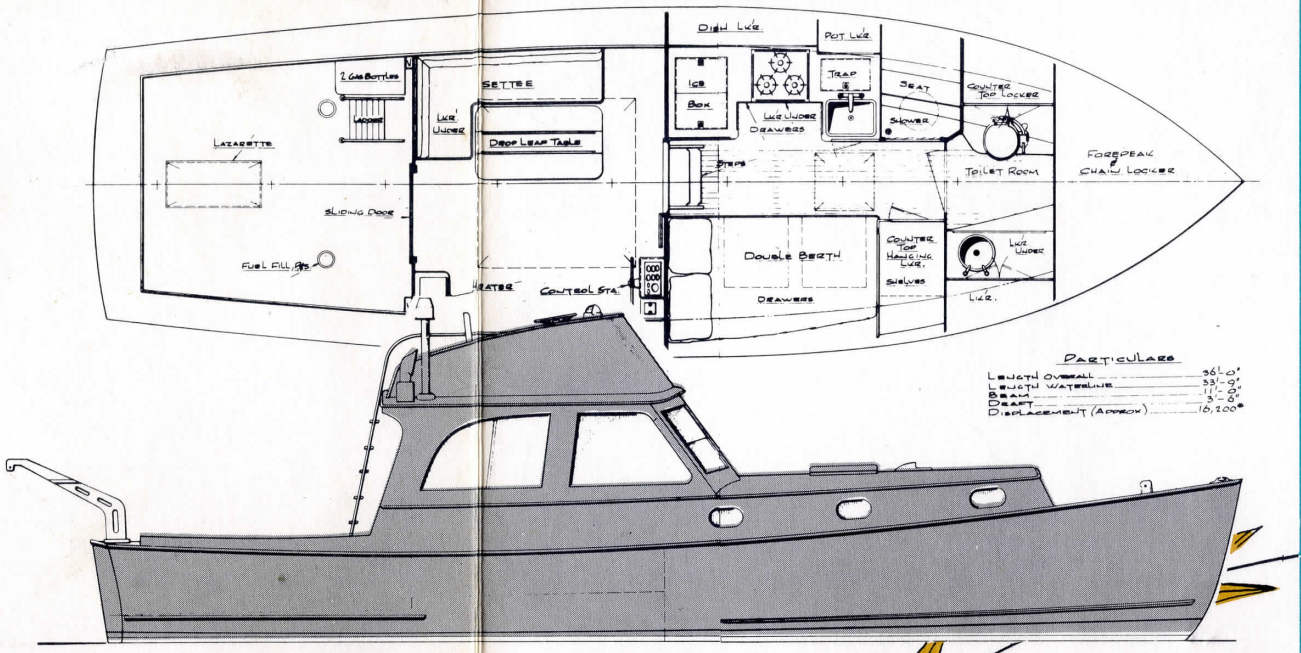

. . . and nearing completion

Shown above are two views of the "Venture", an authentic, original Friendship sloop which was first launched as a fishing boat in 1912 and completely restored to new condition at the Newman shop in 1971.

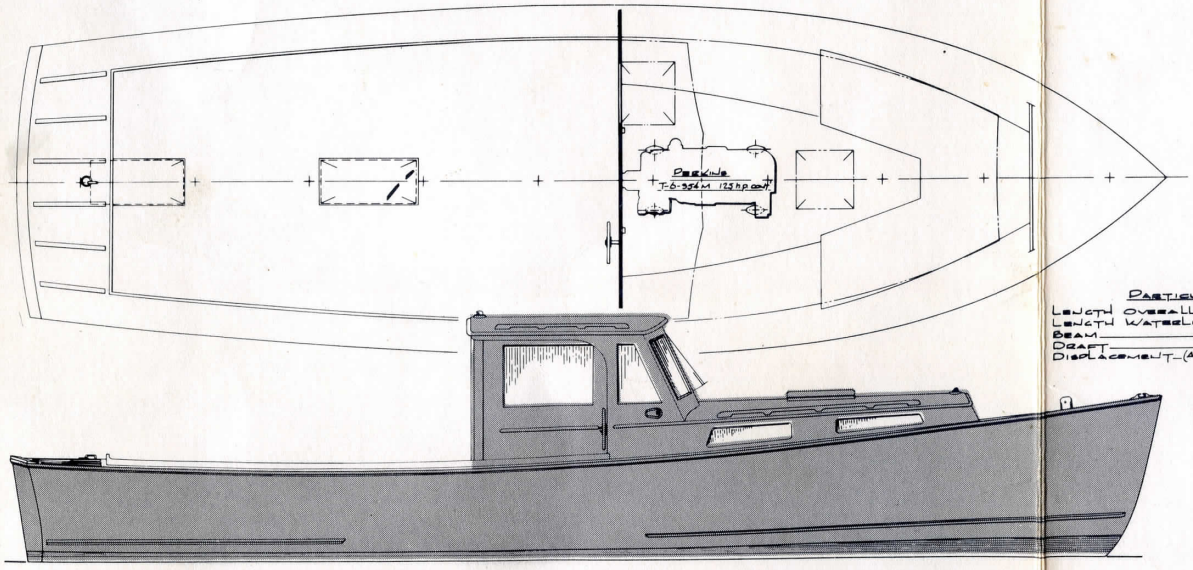

Recently completed in fiberglass is this husky 36′ displacement hull which lends itself to finishing either with large open cockpit (cuddy forward) or one of the many available express cruiser configurations. She is high, able and performs well in a seaway. Here is a new boat born to the needs of the demanding open waters found along the Maine Coast. This boat will take you out and bring you home . . . in safety and in comfort.

Pleasing to the eye, yes and only fragrant wood can offer so much satisfaction to the touch. All that remains to achieve perfect pleasure is a meal of lobsters taken underway while listening to the song of wind in the rigging and sails straining in a fresh breeze.
